NAPS Reschedules 2020 National Convention to 2021

On May 3rd the NAPS executive board approved the postponement of the 2020 National Convention in Grapevine, Texas to the end of August 2021. The executive board, meeting by teleconference, made the decision in the best interests of the NAPS association and the safety and health of its members, auxiliary, and guests during the COVID-19 pandemic.

NAPS will continue to work with its conference planner and the Gaylord Texan Resort to coordinate convention rescheduling arrangements. NAPS will provide updates on the NAPS website and in The Postal Supervisor magazine. Under the NAPS constitution, members of the National Executive Board will continue to hold office until their successors are duly appointed or elected.

At this time, NAPS recommends that its members, auxiliary and guests refrain from making any future room reservations with the Gaylord Texan Resort or registering for the NAPS national convention. Persons who are registered for the convention or at the Gaylord Texan should also refrain from cancelling their reservations or taking any other action at this time. NAPS will provide instructions once final new national convention arrangements for 2021 are confirmed with the Gaylord Texan hotel.
